What job i'm looking for? My positive points

I am looking for a job that would allow me to work from home as I am studying at the moment.

I am an open-minded individual, continuously looking for ways to improve situations, processes and procedures in order to ensure the best versions of them.

My talent is breaking challenges down into comprehensible chunks, thus making it easier to understand. This works well with problem solving, as I have the ability to narrow down to the root-cause of the challenge based on facts, allowing implementation of effective corrective actions.
