What job i'm looking for? My positive points

Will start by greeting my name is nelly phiri who is an hard working and open minded person who love to try new things everyday or when ever i get an opportunity to do so ,I've started working at the retail stores for 4years now but in different stores I've learned a lot and how to communicate with customers and also how to deal with difficult customers too although I also don't have any university qualifications yet but i also wish to have a degree for my self too and through my hard work I've discovered that i also love to do admin work and also wished that one day I can work in a place like a office with a Lebtop or computer next to me that was my dream and that am willing to work hard for but any work opportunities will be a great opportunity for me and for my life changing to be better

I have also learned that what ever you have even is as little as it is you should always appreciate and keep working hard
