What job i'm looking for? My positive points

I am a matured man of the family, honest and hard worker. I have worked very hard previously and do not doubt any positive feed back from my references. Normally the driving job company does not need a young man who is lacking responsibilities, and of course who comes to the company only for money. The applicant should also have to focus on the growth of the company. It should not be the worry of the company owner only. I normally go and extra mile when working and place myself over the limit of my work. The taking care of the property you are using should also be beard in mind by the worker or employer. You need to use the goods in the manner that it should be used by the next person again tomorrow. I will like to be involved in discussions like: How to improve the production in the dept. that am working. Risk assessment points etc.
