What job i'm looking for? My positive points

At the moment I'm still trying to find myself in the career world , I've work at a few companies but still unsure what my place is in these industries . Also would really like to gain more working experience and knowledge . I'm hard working , problem solving and take my job very seriously as to a person needs to outgrow these childishness and make some space to grow up . To make a place for one self in this world and fulfil one's destiny .

I'm a team player but much better at working alone also it doesn't matter because both sides is a win win .

I feel like I will be an asset for whatever company or working place , would like to build myself to be a great worker and individual .
