What job i'm looking for? My positive points

I have a very keen eye for detail. If there's a mistake there, I'm going to find it sooner rather than later. I've been teaching English for 15+ years, but spent hard lock-down learning Python for data science in general, and as a personal hobby, have recently been building GUI apps. Most recently I've been working with a friend to make an app to learn Zulu vocabulary (I don't supply the Zulu info, just the app build). Right now, I'm looking for some part-time work to tide me over while I build enough experience and expertise to take on full stack development.
