What job i'm looking for? My positive points

I'm looking for a data capturing job as I have experience in that field and I also have experience with courier services although I don't have a drivers license.

I am a positive person, with great people skills. In my last position I was a courier assistant where I was tasked with training new employees and from time to time doing the capturing of delivery documents and details. So that position helped me with training skills, leadership skills and patience aswell.
