What job i'm looking for? My positive points

I am a honest, reliable and very dedicated individual to whatever job I have been assigned to.I have the ability to learn anything new that is brought to me very fast.I am also very good in numeracy and accuracy as I am currently in that field of work.At this present time I am a casual worker at DP World my role is a checker which means I have to check all stock leaving the warehouse for deliveries according to codes, quantity, batch numbers and damages and to make sure there is no loss to the company as well as the client...so I'm looking for a job close to that field but I don't mind if it's not coz I have the ability to learn anything new very fast,that is one of my many strengths.In conclusion I would like to say that that any employer who gives me a chance to prove myself will not be disappointed..coz all I need is a chance.
